

Carter Lee

SERVICE PROVIDER

Out of the Wilderness

ABOUT

Carter Lee received a bachelors degree in finance from Rasmussen College in 2018. Prior to Out of the Wilderness, he was employed at Wells Fargo for three years and has additional experience in construction and courier services. Carter's professional interest focus on positively impacting lives and helping others achieve their goals. Carter grew up and currently lives in Grantsburg, Wisconsin with his wife Katie and two young children. He enjoys spending time with his family, playing hockey, drumming, and lifting weights.

Throughout his experiences, Carter has had many opportunities to help people out in multiple ways, and enjoys the rewarding feelings that come with it. Watching people and families benefit and grown over time, from his help, is one of his favorite parts of the relationships he's making. Carter enjoys helping people in anyway they may need and will do his best to help anyone that he is able to. He is open to new challenges with a positive attitude and eager to become a positive influence in as many lives as possible.
