ABOUT

My name is Ean McClelland and I am a recovered drug addict. Meth was my last drug of no choice. My clean date is 12/6/2012. I live in New Richmond with my lovely wife, Echo, and our daughter, Kaleigha. I love the outdoors and playing all different types of sports. I received a bachelors degree in Pastoral Studies from North Central University in 2019 and pastored a church downtown Minneapolis where my responsibilities and titles were many including acting as the Director of Recovery for the church.

I believe that I am an asset to the CCS program because of my lived experience and my passion to come alongside those struggling with addiction and mental health challenges. In my college studies, I was able to learn a lot about youth counseling and had the opportunity to work with numerous kids on all ends of the autism spectrum. For the past 5 years, I have also worked with people struggling with different mental illnesses such as schizophrenia, OCD, and bi-polar disorders. I have many successful experiences working and volunteering at faith based treatment centers and helping every age group to move forward in their lives from the their past traumas and addictions to recovery and freedom.
